

Cecil B. Wilson, MD - National Fellow and Advisor

Cecil B, Wilson, MD was elected president-elect of the American Medical Association (AMA) in June 2009. He has been a member of the AMA Board of Trustees (BOT) since 2002 serving as chair from 2006-2007. Dr. Wilson has been a member of the AMA House of Delegates since 1992. Dr. Wilson has a distinguished record of service and leadership in organized medicine having served as president of the Florida Medical Association (FMA) and chair of its board of governors and executive committee; president of the Orange County Medical Society, and of the medical staffs of the Winter Park Memorial Hospital and Florida Hospital Medical Center, Orlando.

Dr. Wilson received his bachelor's degree in history and his doctorate from Emory University, Atlanta. He interned at the U.S. Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, Va., and completed his residency in internal medicine at the U.S. Naval Hospital, San Diego. He served as a Navy flight surgeon, rising to the rank of commander.

Dr. Wilson's service in organized medicine includes leadership in his specialty of internal medicine. He is past chair of the ACP Board of Regents. Prior to the merger of ACP and the American Society of Internal Medicine (ASIM), Dr. Wilson served on the board of ASIM and was a member of the merger committee, resulting in a combined organization that is the largest medical specialty society in the United States.

In addition to his work within organized medicine, Dr. Wilson is a board member of COLA, a physician-run organization that accredits more than 8,000 physician office laboratories nationwide. He is past president of the Florida Statewide Health Council and a past chair of the Local Health Council of East Central Florida.

Dr. Wilson has been in private practice of internal medicine in Central Florida for 30 years. He is board-certified in internal medicine and a Master of the American College of Physicians (ACP). He serves as National Advisor and Fellow for the Center for Global Health and Medical Diplomacy in Jacksonville, FL.

Otmar Kloiber, MD – International Fellow and Advisor

Dr. Kloiber studied in medicine at the University of Cologne from 1974 until 1985. From 1985 through 1986 he was a Postdoctoral fellow at the University of Minnesota, Duluth, USA, Department of Biochemistry, neurotoxicology and cerebral substance transport. In 1986 he became a research assistant at the Max-Planck-Institute for Neurological Research, Cologne in pathophysiological studies on brain energy metabolism and cerebral blood flow.

From 1991 until 1997 he was a foreign relations adviser at the German Medical Association (Federation of the State Chambers of Physicians); maintaining international and bilateral contacts and co-operations in European and international bodies, international and foreign health policy, co-operation with central and east European organizations and administrations, support for health and social policy reforms, construction of the German Health Network.

Also in 1991 he worked in co-operation with the Standing Committee of European Doctors (CPME), the World Medical Association (WMA), the international conference of medical chambers (CIO), the European Forum of Medical Associations and WHO, and with other national medical associations in the development of deontology under the influence of health system organization and its relation to the provision of medical services.

Dr. Kloiber was Secretary of the German Medical Association from 1997 until 2002 and also was a member of the Study Commission on the Law and Ethics of Modern Medicine of the German Bundestag (Parliament), 14th electoral term. From 2002 through 2005 Dr. Kloiber was Deputy Secretary General of the GMA. In 2005 he became Secretary General of the World Medical Association and remains in that position currently.