

The following are characteristics of Community Service Projects.

Please check all that apply in regard to projects undertaken in your unit.

- Benefits of the project are reciprocal for both the University and the greater community
- Project has the explicit goal of community enhancement
- Faculty/staff/students come into direct contact with community members they otherwise would not encounter beyond the classroom
- Project has explicit goals involving more than just observations or communications by faculty/staff/students
- Project has significance for audiences both beyond and on campus

- Please name and briefly describe your projects