

Art and Art History Study Abroad

UNF Italy: Art, History and Culture May 14 – June 25, 2018

The Department of Art and Design is organizing its Art, History and Culture in Italy study abroad program for the tenth consecutive year. The dates of the program are scheduled in Summer C from May 14th, (departure from the US) with return on June 25th, 2018.

Professors Alex Diaz (photography), Sheila Goloborotko (printmaking) and Dr. Debra Murphy (Art History) will lead the 2018 UNF Italy program. Classes in Ancient Roman Art and Architecture (ARH 3150), Art History on Site (ARH 3955), Photographing Italy (PGY 3952) and printmaking (ART 3930), are offered. The majority of classes are taught in the rich urban fabric of the cities of Rome, Florence and the archeological sites of Pompeii and Herculaneum, utilizing museums, churches and monuments. Classes will be held in the Roman Forum, the Vatican and Capitoline Museums, the Coliseum, the Uffizi and Accademia in Florence and many more important sites.

Special visits to Tuscany will include the medieval hill town of Massa Marittima. This will provide an introduction to Italian culture and contrasts to the larger urban centers. In Massa Marittima students will visit the studios of two contemporary artists and learn about the history of this beautiful location.

The program size will be capped at 25 students. A 2.5 GPA and at least a sophomore standing are required for admission into the program. Students are accepted on a first come-first served basis. All majors are welcome. Dr. Murphy, the academic director of the program, approves all applicants. Pricing and costs will be available in October and an informational meeting will be held on October 16th at 6pm in 45D/1032 (the photography building).
