SYNERGISTIC ACTIVITIES

- I am a leader in mentoring undergraduate researchers: I have personally mentored >75 undergraduate researchers in the past 10 years. I developed the Mote Marine Laboratory Research Experiences for Undergraduates Program and served as PI of this program from 2002-2008. I developed and currently oversee the UNF REU Program (2011-2014).
- I contribute significantly to efforts to increase the representation of underrepresented minorities in science: I have personally mentored numerous undergraduate students who belong to minority groups underrepresented in science (Hispanics, African-Americans). Both the Mote REU Program and the UNF REU Program have maintained a high rate of minority involvement.
- I am highly involved in the public outreach of scientific research: I make strong efforts to communicate scientific research to the general public. As an example, my research has been featured in >25 news articles in the past 5 years. In addition, I have assisted in the development of educational exhibits at several informal science educational facilities.
- I make significant contributions to enhancing science literacy and the education of future scientists: In addition to upper-level courses in Toxicology and Endocrinology, I have been teaching introductory-level biology courses to majors and non-majors for the past 7 years.
- I am involved in a number of collaborative projects on the Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill: I have served as co-PI on 4 multi-institutional grants focused on determining the effects of the Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill on fish populations in the Gulf of Mexico.
