What is the difference between the on-campus and online program options?

The on-campus program allows RNs to complete the program in three (3) semesters (approximately one year). This delivery format only admits new students in the traditional fall term each year. Classroom-based curriculum is scheduled one day per week (Wednesday), typically from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., for the three (3) semesters the student is enrolled in the program. Most of the classes for the on-campus cohort will be presented in hybrid (meeting 4-5 times total instead of every week) or distance learning (online) formats. The on-campus cohort can only begin if enough students apply and are admitted; a new cohort is not guaranteed to begin every fall term. Please refer to the program website for more information regarding the curriculum.

The fully online program allows RNs to complete the program in the equivalent of three (3) traditional semesters (approximately one year). The online cohorts are an adjusted online format, which will include 8-week terms (two 8-week terms are the equivalent of one traditional 16-week term). This format is referred to as part-of-term (POT) enrollment. With this format, students will typically take two (2) courses per 8-week term. This format will admit a new cohort every eight (8) weeks. Coursework will be completely online. Please refer to the program website for more information regarding the curriculum.
