

What career paths might open if you earn an M.A. in English? Meet some of our graduates.

Bill Delaney, Class of 2015
Assistant Director of Creative Services, University of North Florida, Jacksonville

“The English M.A. program opened up an entirely new career path for me in marketing for higher education. It honed my writing and critical thinking skills, which are crucial in marketing work. The skills I developed were instrumental in helping me shift into management and create my own department.”

William Weeks, Class of 2015
Dual Enrollment English Teacher, Clay High School, Green Cove Springs

“Because of my M.A. in English, I am currently enjoying my dream job teaching Dual Enrollment English — and I am able to do so with a confidence in my subject area and craft of teaching. I love the freedom of creating the curriculum for my students with their best interests in mind.”

Nan Kavanaugh, Class of 2014
Director of Marketing and Communications, Museum of Contemporary Art Jacksonville

“My M.A. in English puts me a notch above others in my field with B.A. degrees, signaling that I not only have an expert grasp on the English language, but also that I am dedicated to the work of advancement. I became a magazine editor fresh out of the graduate program at UNF, and now am the Director of Communications and Marketing at a major museum.”

Noreen Stephenson, Class of 2013
Education Program Coordinator, Mayo Clinic, Jacksonville

“My M.A. degree in English has helped me excel in the Department of Education at Mayo Clinic. Good written and oral communication is an integral part of everything I coordinate for certification, accreditation and licensure, so having the excellent skills honed at UNF has been a huge part of my career success and advancement.”

Jenna Pack, Class of 2009
Assistant Professor of English, University of New Haven, Connecticut

“My literature classes and Concentration in Composition and Rhetoric at UNF provided a foundation for my successes in academia. I pursued my Ph.D. in Rhetoric and Composition at the University of Arizona and now am an Assistant Professor of English and the Coordinator of Writing Across the Curriculum at the University of New Haven. The personalized support I received from the UNF English faculty gave me a solid background in the field.”
