Earning your BSN can open the door to new career opportunities in the current and future healthcare job markets while helping you elevate the quality of care you provide patients.

The Institute of Medicine and the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN) recommend that 80% of nurses have their BSN degrees by 2020. Prepare for the changing healthcare landscape by enrolling today and earning your BSN.

UNF’s online RN-to-BSN bridge is known for its community-focused approach. You’ll partner with a local agency — such as a homeless shelter, home-care agency, or disaster response organizations — on a project that is relevant to your professional practice and will promote community health within your area.
